"Strategies for Indigenous Self-Reliance"

NEXUS TRADE SHOW 05

Natural resource development in Canada is booming. Western and Northern Canada, areas with the greatest concentration of Aboriginal people, are experiencing one of the greatest sustained eras of wealth creation in the history of the country. With:

- $87 billion in investment slated for the oil sands
- $65 billion in infrastructure projects in BC's Lower Mainland
- the prospect of the Mackenzie Valley, Alaska Highway and Fort McMurray to the BC coast Pipeline Projects
- huge energy (oil, gas, coal, coalbed methane, hydro, and alternative energy), and
- minerals (diamonds, and base metals), and forestry sectors thriving, the pace of development is astonishing.

All of this activity is taking place within the traditional territories of Aboriginal peoples at a time when legal decisions require real consultation, and accommodation of their interests. Aboriginal Canadians have an unprecedented opportunity to forge a new era of self-reliance from this dynamic period of growth and expansion.

The largest most high-profile Aboriginal resource event in the country will bring together the resource development industry and Aboriginal players to network, share information, exchange views, and examine the new reality of opportunities. The NEXUS TRADE SHOW runs concurrently with the RESOURCE EXPO05 Conference. Don't miss the Trade Show Reception October 31st, 2005 from 4:30pm - 6:30pm.

COVER ARTWORK "Spirit of the Forest" was provided by the internationally acclaimed artist of the Tsimshian Nation, Bill Helin (www.billhelin.com).

"My ancestors believed that you need to see through the eyes of the creatures of the forest to be at one with them. This is an important lesson for survival and teaches children how to respect all of creation. This also helps to maintain a balance on earth and gives thanks to the Creator. The Chief of the wolf is ghosted in the trees as he runs through the forest with his lifecrest creature. He is Laxaboo (of the wolf clan), jumping over the ancient fallen wolf totem." Acrylic on canvas.
